

Buchko, DeVoss Address Aircraft Meeting

The Amway Hangar at the Kent County Airport served as a meeting room on April 13 for the Experimental Aircraft Association. Around thirty members responded to the invitation issued by Milt Weeks, Public Relations officer for the organization, through the cooperation of Walt Buchko.

Amway's Chief Pilot Walt Buchko was the main speaker of the evening. He discussed the transition from flying propeller-driven aircraft to the modern jet airplanes. Also on the program was Jim DeVoss, Systems and Procedures, who showed a film and discussed flight training in the Air Force.
